

ACPN Resource Development Day 10 November 2017 10am to 4pm

- Would you appreciate guidance to make sound, evidence-based clinical decisions quickly and easily?
- Do you feel confident that your practice compares with similar services nationally?
- Would you like to be involved in developing resources to support robust professional decision-making in specialist colorectal practice?

You are invited to attend a Colorectal Resource Development Workshop run by the Association of Coloproctology Nurses (ACPN) of ACPGBI on the 10th November 2017 10am to 4pm at Unit 4 Network Park Industrial Estate, Duddeston Mill Road, Saltley, Birmingham, B8 1AU.

Lunch and refreshments will be provided and up to £100 in travel expenses will be reimbursed (reimbursed travel for ACPGBI members only).

The workshop aims to identify key areas of specialist practice in coloproctology requiring further guidance than is currently available and to provide an opportunity to be involved in developing valuable, evidence-based resources in collaboration with colleagues specialising in coloproctology across the UK. Initial ideas include: an algorithm to guide the nursing management of anterior resection syndrome, decision-aids to support patient decision-making in early and advanced colorectal cancer, role descriptors for nurses specialising in coloproctology.

We hope that you can join us for this excellent opportunity to be involved in undertaking important work that will support NMC revalidation and could lead to publication.

To apply, please contact Anne O'Mara at admin@acpgbi.org.uk or 020 7973 0307 by 1 November 2017.
